Dear member of the public

Thank you for sending your identification through.

I can inform you that the Office of the Police and Crime Commissioner (OPCC) for Cambridgeshire and Peterborough does not hold any personal data concerning you, (other than your current email request obviously).

I do apologise for having to ask you to send your identification through before I was able to tell you that, but I am sure you will understand that whether or not we respond in the affirmative or negative regarding these requests, it is important that we are replying to the correct person.

As I indicated in my earlier email, Cambridgeshire Constabulary is a separate organisation to the OPCC and have their own process for such requests for information. I have attached the OPCC privacy notice that details our data handling arrangements.

Regards

Office of the Police and Crime Commissioner for Cambridgeshire and Peterborough
