

INFORMATION RETENTION AND DISPOSAL POLICY: OFFICE OF THE POLICE AND CRIME COMMISSIONER FOR CAMBRIDGESHIRE AND PETERBOROUGH

Introduction

The Office of Police and Crime Commissioner (OPCC) for Cambridgeshire and Peterborough is committed to the highest possible standards of openness, probity and accountability. All organization's generate records which must be collated, maintained and revised over time.

As a public body, the Office of the Police and Crime Commissioner (OPCC) has a responsibility to be accountable to the public for its actions. Therefore its records must be accurate and capture the correct details of transactions. The policy for management of these must protect the rights of privacy, confidentiality and security. This applies to the management of records of all formats or media, whether created or received.

Effective records management is essential to support compliance with the Freedom of Information Act 2000, (FOIA), the Section 46 Records Management Code issued under the Data Protection Act (DPA) 1998, and the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR)

This policy statement sets out how the OPCC manages information and complies with its statutory obligations and how it will be reviewed annually. It applies to all the information held by the office, regardless of its format or origin. It includes policy and procedures around:

- Records management, security and sharing information; and
- Retention and disposal of documents.

Records Management and Information Security

All organisation's generate records which must be collated, maintained and revised over time. Public authorities are accountable for their actions to the public so need to ensure their records are accurate and reliable. A record is any report, letter, email, minute, decision note, meeting note or other document whether hard copy or electronic, whether created or received and includes any personal data.

The OPCC approach to record management aims to ensure that:

- The value of information is understood;
- Records are current;
- Records can be accessed easily;
- Records can be easily interpreted;
- Records are a reliable representation of that which it is supposed to document; and
- Qualities of the document can be maintained, despite alterations or adaptations over time.

The OPCC is committed to the creation, storage, management and eventual disposal of records in a manner accurately documenting the functions of the OPCC and compliant with this policy. All staff who create, receive and use records have record management responsibilities at some level.

The OPCC will ensure that it develops and utilises systems for the documenting of its activities and registering its records. In order to maintain records efficiently and where applicable, there should be a tracking system in place so the location of particular records can be established and retrieved.

Our policy is to:

- Manage information effectively as a strategic corporate body by providing timely, appropriate, accurate and up-to-date information when it is needed;
- Make information available to those with a business need to see it;
- Take appropriate measures to protect information, including personal information, which cannot be shared for reasons of security or privacy;
- Assess and manage risks to the confidentiality, integrity and availability of information;
- Ensure that information created, collected and stored is proportionate to the business need, and is retained only for as long as it is needed;
- Ensure information is of the appropriate quality, and in the appropriate media, to support business needs;
- Create an information literate culture, where all staff recognise that information is everyone's responsibility and have the skills, confidence & commitment to effectively manage information according to the requirements of their role; and
- Comply with all relevant statutory and regulatory requirements;

Retention and Disposal Procedure and Schedule

The OPCC is committed to operating in an open and transparent manner. The record disposal procedure is designed to support the Commissioner's corporate governance framework. The purpose of this procedure is to:

- prevent the premature disposal of records
- prevent unnecessary retention of personal data
- provide consistency of preservation/disposal
- improve record management

Records will be retained for the periods shown in the below Information Retention and Disposal Schedule. All retention periods are given in whole years and are from the end of the financial year to which the records relate. Records should be disposed of by shredding / arranging for collection as confidential waste for disposal by the appropriate body and this should also include all back-up copies on alternative media.

Litigation: Whenever there is a possibility of litigation or a request under the Freedom of Information Act the records that are likely to be affected should not be amended or disposed of until the threat of litigation has ended or the appeal processes under the Freedom of Information Act have been exhausted.

Record of Disposal: A record of disposal of the information detailed in the attached schedule should be maintained.

Standard Operating Procedure: This applies to records which do not need to be kept at all. Information which is duplicated, unimportant or of short term use can be disposed of under the Standard Operating Procedure, including:

- compliment slips;
- catalogue and trade journals;
- telephone message slips;
- trivial e-messages or notes not related to OPCC business;
- working papers which lead to a final report (including notes of meetings);
- duplicated and superseded material such as stationary, manuals, drafts, address books and reference copies of annual reports.
- e-copies of documents where a hard copy has been printed and filed or vice versa.

Except where these may be used as evidence to prove that something has happened.
